

Shock Collars Can't Be Justified

EXCUSE # 3

“The shock collar is just another tool in the toolbox. You wouldn't ask for a ban on hammers, frying pans, baseball bats or cars.”

Shock, prong & choke collars, whips, chains, hooks and spurs are designed to hurt, control and intimidate animals. When used as intended they inflict pain and emotional suffering. Hammers, frying pans, baseball bats and cars were not designed to hurt, control or intimidate. Using any one of these items as a weapon would warrant criminal charges. If you use a car improperly it damages people. If you use a shock collar properly it damages animals. That is why we should ban shock collars not bats, hammers, frying pans or cars. Banning shock collars will not eradicate animal abuse but would be an important step towards recognizing that the sentient beings in our care deserve better. Legislation is not for people who know better, it's for people who don't.
