

Shock Collars Can't Be Justified

EXCUSE # 4

“The problem isn't the shock collar, it's the person using it.”

The problem is both. The shock collar is designed to deliver pain and the people using them do just that. Sadly, joyful healthy canine behaviors are viewed by some as punishable offences. Just as unenlightened are pet store employees willing to sell a shock collar to anyone for any reason. Shock proponents claim that wise informed dog owners know how to use a shock collar without doing damage. Seriously? Were they born with this mastery or was this expertise honed at the expense of dog's they've practiced on? The insensitive have few qualms about holding down the continuous button to deliver long excruciating shocks while snapping out their demands. Eventually, many shocked dogs become aggressive, just like their shockers. So, how do we protect animals from shock collar abuse?

WE BAN THEM.
